

Eucharistic Miracle of SANTARÉM

PORTUGAL, 1247

The woman stole the Host and hid the Holy Eucharist in a linen cloth that immediately became stained with Blood.

The woman who went to the witch who counseled her to steal a consecrated Host

The woman takes communion and steals the Host without realizing it

The husband of the woman discovers the theft, noticing that rays of light were emanating from the kitchen cupboard. He opened the cupboard and saw a Bloody Host which had changed into Flesh

Commemorative medallion of the miracle of Santarém

The home of the sacrilegious woman who was converted in the small chapel, Santarém

Pedro Crasbeck, Print of 1612 that shows exactly the glass ampulla in which was miraculously found the Host of the miracle

The local authorities rush to return the miraculous Host to the church

